The following amendments were incorporated in the Washington and Richmond Railroad bill (about which there has been such a warm contest,) previous to its passage in the Virginia

Legislature: Sec. 11. The provisions of this act shall not tently, it is sure to cure become operative, nor any of the franchises herein granted be enjoyed by the Washington and Richmond railway company until the Pennsylvania railroad company shall deposit with the Board of Public Works of the Commonwealth such guaranty, in writing, executed by said Pennsylvania railroad company, under its seal, wherein there shall be the sum of one million five hunded thousand dollars stipulated as liquidatd damages to ensure to the benefit of the Norfolk and Great Western railroad com-pany in case of a breach thereof by said Pennsylvania railroad company; such guaranty in writing to be deemed sufficient by the Board of Public Works that the said Pennsylvania railroad company will guaranty sufficient number of the first mortgage bonds of the Norfolk and Great Western railroad company, when demanded by the said Norfolk and Great Western railroad company, to construct and equip said railroad from Danville to Bristol; said bonds so guaranteed to be applied exclusively, together with such subscriptions, to the capital stock of said Norfolk and Great Western railroad company, as have been heretofoe made, or may hereafter be made applicable to that purpose to the construction and equipment of the said road from Danville to Bristol: Provid-ed, that said Norfolk and Great Western railroad company shall not demand the benefit of the said guaranty until it shall have first procured solvent subscriptions to the amount of $2,000,000 to its capital stock, to be determined by the Board of Public Works: And provided further, that the said Norfolk and Great Western railroad company shall make said demand within five years from the date of the passage of this act: And provided further, that the first mortgage, hereinbefore provided for, shall only be and apply to the road from Danville to Bristol, and the capital stock thereof subscribed to be expended on said portion of said road : And provided further that it shall be a condition of the contract of guaranty, hereinbefore provided for, to be deposited with the Board of Public Works by the Pennsylvania railroad company, that the said company shall furnish its guaranty on the said bonds of the Norfolk and Great Western railroad company in such quantity and as often as shall be necessary for

Board of Public Works." And as a faithful condition precedent to the use and enjoyment of any of the privileges con-ferred by this charter, the Pennsylvania Central railroad company shall give its official obligation in manner and form satisfactory to the Board of Public Works of Virginia when said obligation shall be deposited; that said company will guarantee the first mortgage bonds of the Piedmont and Potomac railroad company an amount necesary to furnish the superstructure and equipment for said road on the line now indicated by its charter, and not less than fifteen thousand dollars per mile, and said guarantee may by required of said Pennsylvania railroad company at any time in amounts necessary to place the superstructure on any ten miles or more of said road which may be ready for the same until the line of said road is completed, provided that the obligation of the Pennsylvania railroad company to guarantee said bonds cease to determine at the expiration of five years.

DEATH RATHER THAN HOUSEWORK. - Suicides are now becoming exceedingly general. -Few days pass without some attempt at selfmurder; and these occurrences are mostly among those who are young, and who have had comparatively little wordly experience.—
Eleanor Kirk, writing to the Elizabeth Herald

of a recent suicidal attempt in Brooklyn, says : The principal gossip in social circles is the attempted suicide of a young married woman in East Brooklyn: The husband is a moderately wealthy man of good standing and reputation, but extremely eccentric in certain directions. No servants are allowed in his establishment, and his wife, who has no taste for domestic occupations, finally became so disgusted with the ceaseless round of scrubbing and working, preparing meals and clearing them away, that she concluded she would explore the unknown, and have a change at any rate. In her letter of farewell, she stated that she had no fault to find with her husband, but she was determined to seek a spot where there were no dishes to wash.

The pistol with which she attempted to shoot himself through the heart, was evidently a new weapon in her hands, for the result tilizers furnished, if desired—to be paid for out was a slight wound in the left side, causing considerable physical pain, but by no means dangerous. I heard last evening that the man of the house is likely to conquer his aversion to servants, having engaged a competent housekeeper and sufficient help to move the domestic machinery, without transforming his wife into a mere household drudge. Pity he hadn't inaugurated such a system before she made them both ridiculous.

A TALE OF TRUE LOVE .- The Stark county Ohio Democrat says: In our marriage notices will be found that of Mr. Jacob and Rebecca Kaufman. By this event there hangs a tale. The same parties were joined in lawful wedlock near fifty years ago, in Pennsylvania, and hved together several years and had three or four children. Mr. Kaufman becoming quite dissipated, caused by family trouble, separation by divorce was the result. He moved to Canton so thirty-five years ago, reformed and married a worthy woman, with whom he lived agreeably till last September, when she died. By this lady he had no children. One of his sons, by Mrs. Kaufman first and third, has lived with his father many years, his step-mother treating him as if her own son. Mr. Kaufman is a worthy old gentleman, about seventy-five years of age now, and his wife many years younger. We wish them many years' happiness. It is quite proper they should come together. Mr. Kaufman for several years has been raising three little motherless grandchildren, who will doubtless appreciate a worthy grand-mother.
